Энэ дэвтрийг хэрхэн ашиглах вэ

Энэ дэвтэр нь 2026 оны шинэчилсэн TOEFL iBT форматын дагуу 5 дасгал сорил + 1 бүтэн урттай сорил агуулна. Сорил бүр дөрвөн хэсэг (Reading, Listening, Writing, Speaking)-тэй бөгөөд төгсгөлд нь хариуны түлхүүр, монгол тайлбар, загвар хариулт байрлана.

СОНСОХ БА ЯРИХ ХЭСГИЙН АУДИОГ ХЭРХЭН АШИГЛАХ ВЭ

PDF дотор дуу тоглуулах боломжгүй тул Listening болон Speaking хэсгийн аудиог бичгэн скрипт (script) хэлбэрээр өгсөн. Дараах байдлаар ашиглана:

- Listening: Найз/гэр бүлийн хүнээр скриптийг чангаар уншуулж, та зөвхөн сонсоод тэмдэглэл ав. Эсвэл скриптийг өөрөө нэг л удаа уншаад дараа нь бүтээж асуултад хариул.
- Listen and Repeat: Хэн нэгнээр өгүүлбэрийг уншуулаад давт, эсвэл өөрөө уншаад чангаар давтаж, өөрийгөө бичиж ав.
- Take an Interview: Асуултыг уншаад 45 секундын таймер тавьж, шууд чангаар хариул. Хариултаа бичиж, дараа нь эргэн сонс.

САНАЛ БОЛГОХ АРГА

1. Сорил бүрийг цагтай нь, тасралтгүй нэг суудалд өг (~2 цаг). Завсарлага байхгүй.
2. Дуустал нь хариугаа бүү хар. Дараа нь бүх хэсгийг хамтад нь шалга.
3. Алдаа бүрийн шалтгааныг тэмдэглэ: үг ойлгоогүй юу, цаг дутсан уу, даалгаврыг андуурсан уу?
4. 1-р ном (Гарын авлага)-ын холбогдох хэсэгт буцаж, сул чадвараа дасгалжуул.
5. Сорилуудыг 2–3 долоо хоногийн зайтай өгч ахицаа хэмж.

Онооны хөрвүүлэлт (ойролцоо)

| Зөв хариулсан хувь (Reading/Listening) | Ойролцоо band | Ойролцоо 0–120 |
|---|---|---|
| 90–100% | 5.5–6.0 | 105–120 |
| 75–89% | 4.5–5.0 | 90–104 |
| 60–74% | 3.5–4.0 | 72–89 |
| 45–59% | 3.0 | 60–71 |
| <45% | ≤2.5 | <60 |

Энэ нь зөвхөн ойролцоо чиглүүлэг бөгөөд бодит TOEFL адаптив тул албан ёсны онооны алгоритм өөр. Writing, Speaking-ийг загвар хариултгай харьцуулж, 1-р номын шалгуураар өөрийгөө үнэл.

TEXT A — Gym notice

GreenFit Gym will be closed on Monday, July 7, for equipment maintenance. All classes scheduled for that day are moved to Tuesday at the same times. Members can freeze their membership for one week at no charge by emailing us before Sunday.

Q1. Why will the gym be closed on Monday?

- A A public holiday
- B Equipment maintenance
- C Staff training
- D Low attendance

Q2. What can members do before Sunday?

- A Get a refund
- B Freeze membership for free
- C Join a new class
- D Cancel forever

TEXT B — Text messages

Ana: Are we still meeting to study for the chemistry exam tonight?
Ben: Yes, but the library closes at 8 now. Want to move to the café instead?
Ana: Good idea. It's open till 11. See you at 6?
Ben: Perfect.

Q3. Why do they change their meeting place?

- A The café is cheaper
- B The library closes early
- C Ana prefers the café
- D The exam was cancelled

Q4. What time will they meet?

- A 6 p.m.
- B 8 p.m.
- C 11 p.m.
- D 5 p.m.

Reading · Part 3: Read an Academic Passage

Унших · 3-р хэсэг: Эрдэм шинжилгээний эх бичвэр

Honeybees communicate the location of food through a behavior called the "waggle dance." When a foraging bee returns to the hive after finding flowers, it performs a series of movements on the honeycomb. The angle of the dance relative to vertical indicates the direction of the food in relation to the sun, while the duration of the "waggle" phase signals the distance. Remarkably, other bees can decode this information in the dark hive and fly directly to the source. This discovery, made by the scientist Karl von Frisch in the twentieth century, showed that insects are capable of a form of symbolic communication once thought unique to humans. However, the dance is not perfectly precise; bees that follow it still rely on scent to pinpoint the exact flowers.

Q1. What is the passage mainly about?

- A How bees produce honey
- B How bees communicate the location of food
- C Why bees are dying out
- D How Karl von Frisch trained bees

Q2. What does the angle of the dance indicate?

- A The distance to the food
- B The type of flower
- C The direction of the food relative to the sun
- D The number of bees needed

Q3. The word "decode" is closest in meaning to:

- A interpret
- B ignore
- C repeat
- D record

Q4. According to the passage, why is the dance NOT perfectly precise?

- A Bees dance too fast
- B The hive is too dark
- C Bees still need scent to find the exact flowers
- D The sun moves during the day

Q5. What can be inferred about von Frisch's discovery?

- A It proved bees are smarter than humans
- B It changed ideas about animal communication
- C It was quickly forgotten
- D It applied only to one hive

Listen to an Academic Talk

Эрдэм шинжилгээний илтгэл сонсох

"Let's talk about why leaves change color in autumn. During spring and summer, leaves are green because of chlorophyll, the pigment that captures sunlight for photosynthesis.

As days grow shorter and cooler, trees stop producing chlorophyll. As the green fades, other pigments that were present all along — yellows and oranges — become visible. In some trees, sugars trapped in the leaves produce red pigments. Finally, the tree seals off the leaf, and it falls. So the bright colors of autumn are really a sign that the tree is preparing for winter."

Q1. What is the main topic of the talk?

- A How trees grow in spring
- B Why leaves change color in autumn
- C How chlorophyll is made
- D Why some trees stay green

Q2. Why do yellow and orange colors appear in autumn?

- A The tree produces new pigments
- B They were always there but hidden by green
- C The leaves absorb sunlight
- D Sugars turn them yellow

Professor: Some people think students should be required to learn a second language at school. Others think it should be optional. What is your view?
Sara: It should be required — knowing another language opens career and travel opportunities.
Tom: I think it should be optional. Not everyone needs it, and forcing it wastes time for some students.

Sample answer

Загвар хариулт — эхлээд өөрөө бич, дараа нь харьцуул

SAMPLE (~120 үг)

I see Tom's point that not every student needs a second language, but I agree with Sara that it should be required. Learning another language does more than help with careers; it trains the brain to think in new ways and builds respect for other cultures. For example, in my school, students who studied English early found it much easier to use online resources and connect with people abroad. While it is true that some students may struggle, schools can offer different levels so no one is left behind. Making a language optional often means those who would benefit most never try it. Overall, I believe a required — but flexible — language program prepares students best for a connected world.

Reading · Part 3: Read an Academic Passage

The invention of the printing press in the fifteenth century transformed European society. Before Johannes Gutenberg developed movable metal type around 1440, books were copied by hand, a slow and costly process that limited literacy to a small elite. The printing press made it possible to produce identical copies quickly and cheaply. As a result, the number of books in Europe grew enormously within a few decades. This flood of printed material spread new ideas rapidly, contributing to major movements such as the Reformation and the Scientific Revolution. Perhaps most importantly, the wider availability of books encouraged more people to learn to read, gradually raising literacy across the continent. Some historians argue that no single invention did more to shape the modern world.

Q1. What is the main idea of the passage?

A Gutenberg was a wealthy man

B The printing press transformed European society

C Books were once copied by hand

D The Reformation began in 1440

Q2. Before the printing press, why was literacy limited to a small elite?

A Reading was forbidden

B Copying books by hand was slow and costly

C There were no schools

D Paper did not exist

Q3. The word "enormously" is closest in meaning to:

A slightly

B greatly

C slowly

D rarely

Q4. Which movement is mentioned as being helped by printing?

A The Industrial Revolution

B The Reformation
C The French Revolution
D The Renaissance of art

Q5. What can be inferred from the last sentence?

A Historians disagree about everything
B The printing press is seen as extremely important
C No inventions matter today
D Books are no longer printed

"Octopuses are among the most remarkable animals in the ocean, largely because of their ability to change color and texture almost instantly. Special cells in their skin, called chromatophores, contain pigment that can expand or shrink. By controlling these cells, an octopus can blend into rocks, sand, or coral in less than a second. This camouflage helps them hide from predators and sneak up on prey. What is truly surprising is that octopuses are colorblind — they cannot see color the way we do — yet they still match their surroundings with great accuracy. Scientists are still studying exactly how they achieve this."

Q1. What is the talk mainly about?

- B How octopuses change color for camouflage
- C What octopuses eat
- D How octopuses reproduce

Sample answer

Загвар хариулт — эхлээд өөрөө бич, дараа нь харьцуул

SAMPLE (~115 үг)

Both Nina and Omar make fair points, but I lean toward Omar's view with one adjustment. It is true that phones can be useful for quick research, as Nina says. However, in my experience, the temptation to check messages during a lecture is very strong, and even a short distraction breaks concentration. For example, when my class banned phones during discussions, students participated far more actively. That said, a complete ban may be too strict. A reasonable rule would allow phones only when the professor asks students to look something up, and otherwise keep them away. This balance keeps the benefits Nina mentions while protecting the focus Omar values.

The ancient Romans were master builders, and among their most impressive achievements were the aqueducts. These structures carried fresh water from distant mountain springs into cities, sometimes across many kilometers. The Romans understood that water flows downhill, so they built their aqueducts with a very slight but constant downward slope. In valleys, they raised the channel on tall stone arches; in hills, they cut tunnels straight through the rock. A steady supply of clean water allowed Roman cities to grow large and support public baths, fountains, and toilets. This engineering knowledge was so advanced that some Roman aqueducts remained in use for over a thousand years, and a few still carry water today.

Q1. What is the passage mainly about?

A Roman public baths

B Roman aqueducts and how they worked

C The size of Roman cities

D How the Romans cut stone

Q2. Why did the Romans build aqueducts with a slight downward slope?

A To make them look beautiful

B Because water flows downhill

C To save stone

D To move water uphill

Q3. According to the passage, what did the Romans do in valleys?

A Cut tunnels through rock

B Raised the channel on tall arches

C Stopped the water flow

D Built fountains

Q4. The word "steady" is closest in meaning to:

A constant

B sudden
C small
D dirty

Q5. What can be inferred about Roman engineering?

A It was quickly forgotten
B It was highly advanced and long-lasting
C It only worked in flat areas
D It required no planning

"Have you ever wondered how your body remembers a disease it has already fought? This is the job of the immune system's 'memory cells.' When you catch an infection, your body produces special cells that learn to recognize that particular germ. After you recover, most of these cells disappear, but a few remain in your body for years. If the same germ returns, these memory cells respond so quickly that you may not even get sick. This is also the principle behind vaccines: a vaccine safely teaches the immune system to recognize a germ, so it is ready to fight the real thing later."

Sample answer

SAMPLE (~120 үг)

Raj raises a practical concern about cost, but I agree with Lena that university education should be free, or at least far more affordable. Education is one of the strongest tools for reducing inequality, and when talented students cannot attend because of money, society loses their potential. For example, in countries where public universities are free, many first-generation students are able to study who otherwise could not. I understand Raj's worry that taxes would rise and quality might drop, but this depends on how the system is funded and managed. A well-designed public system can maintain high standards. In my view, the long-term benefits of an educated population outweigh the short-term financial costs.

Coral reefs are often called the "rainforests of the sea" because of the astonishing variety of life they support. A coral reef is built by tiny animals called polyps, which produce hard skeletons of calcium carbonate. Over thousands of years, the skeletons of countless polyps pile up to form the reef. Living coral depends on a special partnership with microscopic algae that live inside its tissues. The algae use sunlight to make food, which they share with the coral; in return, the coral gives the algae shelter. This relationship also gives coral its bright colors. However, when ocean water becomes too warm, the coral expels the algae and turns white — a process known as "bleaching." Without the algae, the coral may starve and die, which is why rising sea temperatures pose a serious threat to reefs worldwide.

Q1. What is the passage mainly about?

A How coral reefs are formed and threatened

B Why algae are dangerous

C How fish live in the ocean

D Why rainforests are important

Q2. What do the algae give the coral?

A Shelter

B Food made from sunlight

C Hard skeletons

D Warm water

Q3. What happens during "bleaching"?

A The coral grows faster

B The coral expels the algae and turns white

C The algae eat the coral

D New reefs form

Q4. The word "astonishing" is closest in meaning to:

A amazing

B small
C ordinary
D boring

Sample answer

Загвар хариулт — эхлээд өөрөө бич, дараа нь харьцуул

SAMPLE (~115 үг)

Carlos makes a valid point that working can reduce study time, but I mostly agree with Emma that a part-time job is worthwhile if it is limited. A few hours of work each week teaches responsibility, time management, and communication — skills that classes rarely cover. For example, a friend of mine who worked part-time at a café became far more confident and organized. The key, however, is balance. If a student works too many hours, Carlos is right that grades can suffer. In my opinion, a small job of ten to fifteen hours a week gives students the benefits Emma describes without the harm Carlos fears. Moderation makes the difference.

Reading · Part 3: Read an Academic Passage

Dogs were the first animals humans ever domesticated, long before cattle, sheep, or crops. Genetic evidence suggests that dogs descended from wolves at least 15,000 years ago, though the exact time and place remain debated. One popular theory holds that domestication began not because humans captured wolves, but because certain wolves began to approach human camps in search of food scraps. The tamer, less fearful wolves were more successful at getting food and gradually grew closer to humans over many generations. In time, this partnership benefited both species: dogs gained a reliable food source and protection, while humans gained help with hunting, herding, and guarding. This long relationship may explain why dogs are unusually skilled at reading human gestures and emotions — a talent few other animals share.

Q1. What is the passage mainly about?

A How dogs were domesticated from wolves

B Why wolves are dangerous

C How to train a dog

D The diet of modern dogs

Q2. According to one theory, how did domestication begin?

A Humans captured young wolves

B Certain wolves approached human camps for food

C Wolves were bred in cages

D Dogs were brought from another continent

Q3. Which wolves were more successful at getting food?

A The largest wolves

B The tamer, less fearful wolves

C The fastest wolves

D The oldest wolves

Q4. The word "reliable" is closest in meaning to:

A dependable

B rare
C tasty
D dangerous

Q5. What can be inferred about dogs' skill at reading human emotions?

A It developed because of their long relationship with humans
B It is shared by most wild animals
C It was taught in the last century
D It has no connection to domestication

"Let's look at why the ocean has tides. Tides are mainly caused by the gravitational pull of the moon. As the moon orbits the Earth, its gravity pulls on the ocean water closest to it, creating a bulge — a high tide. Interestingly, there is a second high tide on the opposite side of the Earth at the same time, caused by the way the Earth itself is pulled toward the moon. As the Earth rotates, different areas pass through these bulges, which is why most coasts experience two high tides and two low tides each day. The sun's gravity also plays a smaller role, especially when the sun and moon line up."

Q1. What mainly causes ocean tides?

- A The wind
- B The moon's gravity
- C Ocean currents
- D The Earth's heat

Q2. Why do most coasts have two high tides each day?

- A Because the Earth rotates through two bulges
- B Because the moon appears twice
- C Because of rain
- D Because the sun sets twice

SAMPLE (~120 үг)

Peter raises a fair concern about honesty, but I side with Yuki that long-term projects often measure understanding better than exams. A timed exam mainly tests how much a student can memorize under pressure, while a project shows whether they can apply knowledge, solve problems, and think independently. For instance, in my science class, a term-long research project taught me far more than any single test. However, Peter is right that projects can be copied. The solution is not to abandon them but to design them carefully — with progress checks and individual presentations that make copying difficult. In my view, a mix of both methods would be ideal, but projects deserve a much larger role than they have today.

Passage 1 — The History of Tea

Эх бичвэр 1 — Цайны түүх

Tea is one of the most widely consumed drinks in the world, second only to water. According to legend, it was discovered in China thousands of years ago when leaves from a wild bush blew into a pot of boiling water. For centuries, tea remained mainly an Asian drink, valued not only for its taste but also for its supposed health benefits. Trade slowly carried it westward, and by the seventeenth century it had reached Europe, where it quickly became fashionable among the wealthy. Because tea was expensive, it was often locked away and served only on special occasions. As trade routes expanded and production increased, prices fell, and tea gradually became a drink for ordinary people as well. Today, dozens of varieties exist, from delicate green teas to strong black ones, each shaped by how the leaves are grown and processed.

Q13. What is the passage mainly about?

A How tea spread and changed over time
B How to grow a tea bush
C Why green tea is healthy
D The price of tea today

Q14. According to legend, how was tea discovered?

A A farmer planted it on purpose
B Leaves blew into boiling water
C A doctor invented it
D It was found in Europe

Q15. Why was tea served only on special occasions in early Europe?

A It was considered dangerous
B It was expensive
C It was hard to make
D It was illegal

Q16. The word "fashionable" is closest in meaning to:

A popular and stylish
B cheap
C forbidden
D bitter

Q17. What caused tea to become a drink for ordinary people?

A A new law
B Falling prices as trade and production grew
C A royal order
D A change in taste

Q18. According to the passage, what shapes the many varieties of tea?

A The color of the pot
B How the leaves are grown and processed
C The country's flag
D The price

Q19. What can be inferred about tea's status in early Asia?

A It was disliked
B It was valued for taste and health
C It was unknown
D It was only for children

Passage 2 — How the Eye Adapts to Darkness

Эх бичвэр 2 — Нүд харанхуйд хэрхэн дасдаг вэ

When you walk from a bright room into a dark one, at first you can see almost nothing. After a few minutes, however, shapes begin to appear. This process is called dark adaptation. The human eye contains two kinds of light-detecting cells: cones, which work best in bright light and allow us to see color, and rods, which are far more sensitive and let us see in dim conditions. In darkness, the cones become nearly useless, and the eye must rely on the rods. The rods need time to build up a light-sensitive chemical that was broken down in the bright light. Full adaptation can take up to thirty minutes. This is why pilots and sailors who need sharp night vision sometimes avoid bright lights beforehand, and why a sudden flash of light can spoil your night vision in an instant.

Q20. What is "dark adaptation"?

A The eye adjusting to see in darkness
B Closing the eyes to rest
C A type of eye disease
D Seeing colors more clearly

Q21. What are cones best for?

A Seeing color in bright light
B Seeing in the dark
C Hearing sounds
D Producing tears

Q22. Why does the eye rely on rods in darkness?

A Rods are more sensitive to dim light
B Rods see color better
C Cones are damaged
D Rods are larger

Q23. About how long can full dark adaptation take?

A A few seconds
B Up to thirty minutes
C Several hours
D A full day

Q24. The word "spoil" is closest in meaning to:

A ruin
B improve
C delay
D brighten

Q25. Why might pilots avoid bright lights before a night flight?

A To save electricity

B To protect their night vision

C To fall asleep

D To see colors

Q26. What can be inferred about a sudden flash of light in the dark?

A It has no effect

B It can quickly undo dark adaptation

C It speeds up adaptation

D It only affects cones

Passage 3 — The Domestication of the Horse

Эх бичвэр 3 — Морийг гаршуулсан нь

Few animals have shaped human history as much as the horse. Wild horses once roamed the grasslands of Central Asia, and it was probably there, around 5,500 years ago, that people first tamed them. At first, horses may have been kept mainly for their meat and milk. Over time, however, humans discovered that horses could be ridden and used to pull loads. This changed everything. A person on horseback could travel far greater distances than one on foot, allowing trade, communication, and even armies to move with new speed. Herders could manage larger flocks, and messages could cross a continent in days rather than weeks. Because horses were so valuable, they became a symbol of wealth and power in many cultures. It was only in the last century, with the spread of engines and cars, that the horse's central role in daily life finally began to fade.

Q27. What is the main idea of the passage?

A The horse greatly influenced human history

B Horses eat grass

C Cars are better than horses

D Central Asia is large

Q28. Where were horses probably first tamed?

A The grasslands of Central Asia

B Northern Europe

C The Sahara Desert

D South America

Q29. What were horses first kept for?

A Racing

B Mainly meat and milk

C Guarding homes

D Pulling boats

Q30. According to the passage, how did riding horses change human life?

A It made people slower

B It let people and messages travel much faster

C It ended all wars

D It reduced trade

Q31. The word "fade" is closest in meaning to:

A grow weaker

B increase

C return

D begin

Q32. Why did horses become a symbol of wealth and power?

A They were very valuable

B They were easy to find

C They were small

D They were cheap

Q33. What finally reduced the horse's central role?

A A disease

B The spread of engines and cars

C A change in climate

D A lack of grass

Passage 4 — The Origins of Writing

Эх бичвэр 4 — Бичгийн үүсэл

Writing is such a basic part of modern life that it is easy to forget it had to be invented. The earliest known writing did not begin as literature or letters, but as a practical tool for keeping records. Around 5,000 years ago in ancient Mesopotamia, traders and officials needed a way to track goods such as grain and cattle. They began pressing marks into soft clay tablets with a reed, creating a script now called cuneiform. At first these marks were simple pictures of objects, but over time they became more abstract symbols that could stand for sounds and ideas. This meant that, eventually, almost anything spoken could also be written down. The ability to store information outside of human memory transformed society: laws could be recorded, stories preserved, and knowledge passed accurately from one generation to the next.

Q34. What is the passage mainly about?

A How and why writing was first invented

B How to read cuneiform

C The best stories of Mesopotamia

D How clay is made

Q35. What was the earliest writing mainly used for?

A Writing poetry

B Keeping records of goods

C Sending love letters

D Teaching children

Q36. What was cuneiform written on?

A Paper
B Soft clay tablets
C Stone walls
D Animal skins

Q37. How did the marks change over time?

A They became simple pictures
B They became abstract symbols for sounds and ideas
C They disappeared
D They stayed the same

Q38. The word "abstract" is closest in meaning to:

A not a direct picture
B very large
C colorful
D spoken

Q39. According to the passage, why was writing so important?

A It made clay valuable
B It let information be stored outside human memory
C It replaced trade
D It made people forget

Q40. What can be inferred about societies after writing appeared?

A They could preserve laws and knowledge more reliably
B They stopped telling stories
C They became smaller
D They lost their history

Listen to a Conversation

Яриа сонсох

Student: Hi, I need to print a 40-page report, but the printer in the lab is out of paper. Is there another place I can use?
Staff: Yes, there's a printing room on the second floor of the library. You'll need your student card to log in.
Student: Great. Is there a charge?
Staff: The first 50 pages each week are free. After that, it's five cents a page. Since your report is under 50 pages, you won't pay anything today.

Q1. What is the student's problem?

A The lab printer is out of paper
B She lost her student card
C The library is closed
D Her report is too short

Q2. What does the student need to log in to the library printer?

A A password from the staff
B Her student card
C A coin
D A special form

Q3. Why won't the student pay today?

A The printer is broken
B Her report is under the 50 free pages
C She is a staff member
D Printing is always free

Listen to an Announcement

Зарлал сонсох

"Attention, students. The main cafeteria will be closed for renovation for two weeks, starting Monday. During this period, meals will be served in the sports hall instead, using the same meal cards. Opening hours will stay the same, but the menu will be slightly reduced. A coffee cart will also be set up near the library entrance for quick snacks. We appreciate your patience and look forward to reopening an improved cafeteria."

Q1. What is the announcement mainly about?

A The cafeteria closing for renovation

B A change in tuition
C A new sports team
D A holiday schedule

Q2. Where will meals be served during the renovation?

A In the sports hall
B In the library
C Outside
D Nowhere

Q3. What will be set up near the library entrance?

A A coffee cart
B A bookshop
C A gym
D A parking lot

Listen to an Academic Talk

Talk 1: "Have you ever wondered why the sky is blue? Sunlight looks white, but it is actually made of many colors mixed together. As sunlight passes through the air, it collides with tiny gas molecules. Blue light, which travels in shorter waves, is scattered in every direction much more strongly than the other colors. So when you look up, you see blue light coming from all across the sky. At sunset, the light must pass through much more air to reach you, and most of the blue is scattered away before it arrives — which is why sunsets often glow red and orange."

Q1. Why does the sky appear blue?

A Blue light is scattered most strongly by air molecules
B The sun is blue
C The ocean reflects upward
D Air is naturally blue

Q2. Why do sunsets often look red or orange?

A The sun changes color
B Blue light is scattered away before reaching us
C The air disappears
D Clouds turn red

Talk 2: "Today, let's look at how a rainbow forms. A rainbow appears when sunlight passes through raindrops in the air. As light enters a drop, it bends, or refracts, and then reflects off the back of the drop before bending again as it exits. Because each color bends by a slightly different amount, the white sunlight is separated into its colors, from red on the outside to violet on the inside. This is why you only see rainbows when the sun is behind you and rain is falling in front of you — the geometry has to be just right."

Q3. What causes a rainbow?

- A Sunlight bending and reflecting inside raindrops
- B Colored rain
- C The moon's light
- D Wind moving clouds

Q4. When can you see a rainbow?

- A When the sun is behind you and rain is in front
- B Only at night
- C When it is completely dry
- D When you face the sun

Dear Support Team,

I am writing about a problem with my home internet, which has been completely down since Monday. I have already contacted your support line twice this week, but I have not received any reply or solution. As I work from home, this issue is seriously affecting me. Could you please send a technician as soon as possible, or explain how quickly the service can be restored? My account number is 33812. I would appreciate a response today. Thank you for your urgent attention.

Sincerely,
Tuya

Professor: Some cities are trying to reduce car use by making public transport free. Is this a good idea?
Elena: Yes — free transport cuts traffic and pollution and helps people who can't afford a car.
David: But "free" isn't really free; taxpayers pay, and the buses might get too crowded.

Sample answer

SAMPLE (~120 үг)

Picture a city where the morning air is clean and the roads are quiet — that is the goal Elena is pointing to, and I find it convincing. Fewer cars mean less pollution and less time wasted in traffic, and free transport especially helps lower-income people who depend on buses. David is right that the money must come from somewhere, but I would frame it differently: cities already spend heavily on roads and parking, so shifting some of that money toward buses is not a new cost so much as a new priority. His worry about crowding is fair, though; free transport only works if cities also add more vehicles and routes. Done carefully, the trade-off seems worth it, because cleaner air and fairer access benefit everyone in the long run.
